

Thirteen Bone Marrow Dishes To Try Right Now in LA

Wednesday, July 30, 2014, by Eater Staff

Although once considered scrap set aside only for soup pots, bone marrow is having a moment in the spotlight thanks to the nose to tail movement that has made off cuts in vogue. Certainly not for the weak of heart, this unctuous cut can send a shock to your arteries. Best paired with acidic or herbaceous flavors to mitigate the fatty intensity, marrow is being highlighted by both classic and innovative preparations. From flans to pies, here is a list of places to indulge in this osseous dish. —Crystal Coser

CHURCH & STATE

Possibly the most well-known marrow dish in the city, Church and State's classic preparation keeps the focus on the marrow itself. Simply roasted with a little radish salad for bite, this juicy, unctuous marrow is a true gem.
